Intro: Pocket Sized Survival Fishing Kit

In this Instructable, I will show you how to make a Pocket Sized Survival Fishing Kit using an Altoids tin. there are more uses to this kit than just fishing. the only thing is though, you'll have to figure them out. they aren't hard though, I promise.

I AM ALSO NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR ANY INJURIES, OR DEATH THAT MAY COME FROM USING THIS KIT. IF THESE EVENTS DO HAPPEN, IT IS DUE TO YOUR LACK OF THOROUGH UNDERSTANDING HOW TO USE IT AND ITS COMPONENTS. I do NOT wish this extreme circumstance on anyone.

PLEASE TAKE THE TIME TO FULLY UNDERSTAND YOUR KIT AND ITS COMPONENTS. DOING SO WILL ENSURE THE RAPID AND EFFICIENT USE IF IT AND ITS COMPONENTS.

Please Give Me Some Feedback As To Whether Or Not You Liked My Instructable!!!! Please Leave Comments!! Hope You Like!!!

step 1: Gathering Your Supplies

You, and YOU alone can determine the number and type of things that go in this kit. heres what I myself use:

- Pre-tied mono-filament leaders with snap swivel.
- Steel leaders with snap swivel.
- assorted steel hooks.
- assorted lead weights
- Spider Wire OR Berkly Trilene mono-filament fishing line.
- Assorted Flies
- Assorted Jigs and Lures
- And Anything else you want to put in it.

step 4: Thats It!!!

And THATS IT!!! now you have your own pocket sized Survival Fishing kit that triples as a land based survival kit if you know how to use your kit properly. you could make snares, catch a rabbit lie "cheat fishing" (where you sink the hook into the back of the fish). you could even make a shelter if you needed to in severe cases. feel free to tailor your kit to YOUR needs...mine is made for me. the things that I included in the kit are basic essentials...the lures and pre-made leaders are a luxury. you could catch a fish off just a hook and line if you had to.

I hope you enjoyed this Instructable as much I did making it!! and good luck surviving in the wilderness. hopefully you will NEVER have to use this kit.

really, everything in ANY survival kit has a use...the use of the items though are only limited by your imagination...the pins could be used to make a hairpin trigger for a snare or deadfall trap, or could (in a severe case) be used as a makeshift hook...but that would be severe. its all about knowing how to use your kit efficiently.
